DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-7 have been re-examined and are pending with this action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Tso (US Pat No.6085201 A).

As per claims 1-7, Tso teaches of an information processing device (see col.1, lines 4-7) and a storage medium carrying program readable by a computer (see col.3, lines 21-28), which causes the computer to transmit and receive electronic mail over a transmission line, comprising of: a screen (see Fig.1, #2) for displaying received electronic mail to a user (see col.4, lines 5-12); a memory means (see Fig.2, #4 and col.3, line 46) for storing answer examples for a reply mail (see col.4, lines 23-24 and col.5, lines 7-9); a content selecting means for presenting a content of received mail and requiring a user to pick therefrom at least one or more portions of contents necessary for preparing a reply to the received mail (see Fig.3, #231, #233, & #235; col.4, lines 31-36; col.5, lines 49-53; and col.6, line 66 to col.7, line 13); an candidate answer message selecting means for requiring a user to select any of the answer examples stored by the memory means (see Fig.3 and col.5, lines 42-48 & 51-60); an answer example adding means for additionally storing the answer example prepared by the reply example preparing means into the memory means (see col.6, lines 59-63); and a reply-mail preparing means for preparing a reply mail by coupling at least one or more portions of contents selected by the contents selecting means with answer examples selected by the answer example selecting means (see Fig.3; Fig.4; and col.6, lines 66-67 to col.7, lines 1-13), wherein said reply e-mail includes said at least one or more portions of said received e-mail (see col.2, lines 59-67). Tso does not explicitly teach setting the sender of the received mail as an addressee of the reply mail and the receiver of the received mail as an addresser of the reply mail, although Tso does teach that one of the response actions can be responding to the writer (see col.4 lines 31-34). Nonetheless, it would be inherit that such a response would entail setting the sender of the received mail as an addressee, to, or the like and the receiver of the received mail as the addresser, from, or the like, as is well known and currently applied in all email systems.

Art Unit: 2155

Response to Remarks

3. In response to the argument regarding "reply-mail preparing means for preparing a reply mail by coupling at least one or more portions of contents selected by the contents selecting means with answer examples selected by the answer example selecting means (see Fig.3; Fig.4; and col.6, lines 66-67 to col.7, lines 1-13), wherein said reply e-mail includes said at least one or more portions of said received e-mail (see col.2, lines 59-67)", Tso clearly teaches these limitations. Tso teaches of "context-appropriate sentences to include in the outgoing text message based on the actual content of the input text passage" (see col.2, lines 65-67), wherein the input text passage can be "portion of a received text message" (see col.2, lines 61-64).

Therefore, it is inherent by the teachings of Tso, for example, if an e-mail message was received such as "Can we meet at Joe's Diner at 12:00?", the teaches of Tso would suggest "Yes we can" or "No we cannot" "meet at Joes's Diner at 12:00.". The teachings of Tso do not teach away from the claimed invention and clearly do not suggest portions of a received e-mail cannot be included or inserted in the outgoing "context-appropriate sentences" message.

It is highly suggested that the claims be amended to clearly define the novel aspect of the invention such as including functional elements that teaches away from prior art or teaches an improved means than that of prior art

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
